

IGS is proud to serve as a Turn Key Solution for Asset Disposition. When large manufacturers and service companies need to dispose of IT Hardware, they call IGS. We work closely with logistics to provide our services either on their site, or in our facility. Generally, all their old computer systems can be brought into IGS. We then assess all systems and demanufacture usable parts which are then tested, refurbished and certified. These and systems are brought back into the marketplace, where they can still provide value for other companies. When parts are truly end of life, and cannot be used again, IGS takes due diligence for proper disposal through certified facilities. We provide full traceability for our customers.
